

N.T.M. ZIYO ZUKKO MAKTABI, INGLIZ TILI O'QITUVCHISI.Axmedova Fotima Turayevna

Day of Remembrance and Honor.

<https://doi.org/10.5281/zenodo.19647974>

Annotation. This article discusses the importance of the Day of Remembrance and Honor, its role in society, and the responsibility of younger generations in preserving historical memory. The article emphasizes respect, patriotism, and the value of peace.

Keywords: Remembrance, Honor, Peace, Heroes, Veterans, Patriotism, Memory, Respect, History, Society.

Introduction

Every nation has special days that reflect its history, values, and national pride. The Day of Remembrance and Honor is one of the most meaningful and emotional holidays. It is celebrated to remember those who sacrificed their lives and to honor people who contributed to peace and independence. This day teaches younger generations about courage, patience, and love for their homeland.

The Day of Remembrance and Honor reminds us that peace did not come easily. Many brave soldiers defended their country, and many families experienced difficult times. Their courage and sacrifice created the peaceful life we enjoy today. This day gives us an opportunity to express gratitude and respect to those heroes.

Main Part

May 9, 2023 marks the 81th anniversary of the victory over fascism in World War II.

May 9 - the Day of Memory and Honor is widely celebrated in our country as a national holiday. Everything is for man, for his interests. This noble goal has taken a firm place in our lives during the years of independence, has found its strong expression in the lives of our compatriots as the main direction of consistent reforms and the independent development of our country. Today, Uzbekistan has become a great independent state where man, his life, freedom, honor, and dignity are glorified.

Memory and honor are one of the age-old values, great virtues of our people. People who fought for the peace, tranquility, freedom and independence of the people and homeland are always in the honor of our people.

Honoring, perpetuating the memory of, and showing care and attention to those who set such an example of courage and bravery, our grandfathers who sacrificed their lives on the battlefields, our grandmothers who patiently overcame great difficulties, has been enriched with a new meaning and content during the years of independence.

During the Great Patriotic War, 1.5 million of the 6.5 million inhabitants of Uzbekistan went to the front, 420 thousand of them did not return, and 640 thousand were wounded. 120 thousand Uzbeks were awarded orders and medals.

In particular, 338 Uzbeks were awarded the title of Hero of the Soviet Union. During the war years, Uzbekistan became a refuge for 1.5 million people evacuated from dangerous areas.

The concept of memory and appreciation has a deep meaning. On this day, we young people will never forget and should never forget the memory of all our grandfathers and great-grandmothers, as well as those who sacrificed their lives in defense of their homeland and died heroically in this cruel war.

The Day of Remembrance and Honor is a symbol of respect for the past and responsibility for the future. On this day, people visit memorials, lay flowers at monuments, and remember those who lost their lives protecting their homeland. These traditions help keep history alive and strengthen national unity.

Veterans are special people who deserve respect and gratitude. Their bravery, patience, and dedication serve as an example for younger generations. Meeting veterans, listening to their stories, and supporting them helps young people understand the value of peace and independence. Their life experience teaches important lessons about courage, sacrifice, and loyalty.

Another important aspect of this day is remembering not only soldiers but also all people who contributed to peace and development. Teachers, doctors, workers, and parents who struggled during difficult times also deserve recognition. Their efforts helped build society and create better opportunities for future generations.

Young people play a significant role in preserving memory. Schools and educational institutions organize events, discussions, and meetings dedicated to this day. Students learn about history, prepare presentations, and express gratitude to veterans. These activities develop patriotism and responsibility among youth.

The Day of Remembrance and Honor also promotes kindness and humanity. Helping elderly people, supporting families of veterans, and participating in charity events are meaningful ways to celebrate this day. Such actions strengthen unity and create a culture of respect in society.

This day reminds us that peace is the greatest value. By remembering the past, people learn to avoid conflicts and work together for a peaceful future. Respect for history builds strong communities and inspires people to contribute positively to society.

Conclusion

In conclusion, the Day of Remembrance and Honor is an important day that reminds us of courage, sacrifice, and unity. Honoring heroes and remembering history help build a peaceful and strong society.

This day teaches young generations to respect the past, appreciate the present, and work for a better future. Memory keeps history alive, and honor inspires people to do good for their country and humanity.

References

1. History of World War II and its global impact
2. National traditions and historical memory materials
3. Educational resources about patriotism and remembrance days
4. Cultural heritage and social values studies
5. Public speeches and educational articles about peace and unity